The Police Court was painfully quiet yesterday.

The Franklyn smelter started up another stack Saturday, which makes five now running.

One man was arrested for camping in the street yesterday, and another for leaving team untied.

The trial of Gallifant for murder now in progress in the Third District Court, was the topic of yesterday.

The Horn Silver company is shipping twelve cwt of ore per day from their mine to the Franklyn smelter.

The divorce market is rather lively, with a prospect of a decided improvement in the amount of business.

City Creek is booming, the heat of the last few days having awakened the torrent which slumbers in the snow banks.

Large quantities of iron and silver ores are being brought from Tintic district to the smelters at Sandy and Cottonwood.

The Utah Central train for Ogden last night waited till 11.15 for the accommodation of Ogdenites who were down to see Excelsior.

May flowers and blossoms make the morning air redolent with fragrance. Our city now looks charming from the elevated bench lands.

That prompt action in the matter of garbage is necessary is proved by the fact that one victim was run in yesterday for neglect in that particular.

The flower garden in the city are beginning to look very beautiful and perhaps the most attractive ones in town are in the Nineteenth Ward.

High water is beginning to do a good deal of damage in the lower sections of the city. The water-masters will have his hands full to prevent a serious overflow.

The regular practice of the Choral Society takes place at Carlees & Co.'s music room to-morrow evening at 7 o'clock standard time. A full attendance is particularly desired.

A special rate of less than half fare is being arranged over the various railroads for parties going to the dedication of the Logan Temple. Ample time will be given purchasers to remain and visit.

Nests of worms are seen in the fruit trees of many localities. They can be burnt out with an alcohol torch without much injury to the trees, and a great deal of the fruit could be saved in that way.

A telegram received Saturday from Nephi states that the bridge of the Sanpete Valley railroad over Salt Creek in Salt Creek canyon was washed away. Superintendent Bamberger went to Nephi on the Utah Central in the afternoon, and will make every effort to have the road put in running condition as soon as possible.

The attorneys for Hopt have given notice of appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. Before they can carry this point to extend the earthly career of their client, one of the justices of the Supreme Court of the Territory must certify that there is probable ground for an appeal, and it is believed by lawyers that none of the justices will give such a certificate.

A WORD TO CROAKERS.

The World is Better, Friends,
Than You Think.

How often the moans of evil prophets are heard, in society, in business, in the press, in the pulpit, and almost everywhere, about the awful condition of the human race, the terrible sins, the rank dishonesty, the rampant crime, and all the category of evils, which, really, when taken for the entire world and dissected, is only a mere bubble on the ocean of civilization, an invisible speck on the horizon of history.

The greatest evils existed in the days of tyranny and priestcraft, when murder and rapine were committed in the lives of individuals and communities. The lesser evils growing out of the base passions of the race would naturally thrive where great evils were in a- hion.

The example of the libertine prince or duke was imitated by the courtier and peasant; vicious habits became the fashion, because constant warfare gave men but little opportunity to develop ought else than their animal natures. And yet, even in those times, the virtue of the family was sacredly fostered by the millions which are never thought of by the croakers who talk of the widespread social evils which are about to engulf the human family at one fell swoop. The masses were always tending upwards to a higher plane, and in spite of the bad example set by princes and royal courts, and by the high ecclesiastical authorities at various epochs of history, the people have continued to advance gradually, and have grown better with each succeeding generation when they have not been brutalized by war and oppression. And even then they have recovered with wonderful facility, and in some cases, as for instance, in the wars of the reformation, it seemed that a superior race was positively produced from the rivers of blood which then stained the soil of Europe. They produced the Huguenots; and was it not contention and bloodshed which raised up the brood of the Puritans, the English counterpart of the Huguenots?

Coming to our own country and to our own community we shall find the same lesson taught by the pages of history and by examples which we may observe if we have eyes to see. The American race is a better, more moral and more scrupulous race since the war of the rebellion than ever before, and the errors of a few public officials, the dishonesty of a few speculators and politicians, or even the trickery of political parties, prove nothing to the contrary. The American race is a great, a magnificent race, and is improving every day in all the elements which the gods and good men admire; it is the soul of honor, the enemy of cant and hypocrisy, the supporter of religion and science, the champion and friend of advancement, the firm and impregnable bulwark against civil and theological oppression. The characters of the individuals and the masses which compose it are grounded in purity and good feeling toward their fellow men, and their destiny is the greatest that ever was led out to mortal men.

Fifty million human beings whose fathers or themselves have been gathered from the entire face of the globe by nearly the same noble motive, must of necessity be the foundation for a noble race. History gives no account of any other race starting out under such propitious circumstances, and nothing in history indicates a title of the progress, even in a thousand years, that this well-favored race has made in a single century.

The evils which exist and the wrong that is done are but the faintest ripples on this vast ocean of human life. The bad deeds that are done hold the same relation to the human family as a rotten jelly fish on the sardine beach, holds to the grand majestic and immaculate ocean. Of the thousands and tens of thousands of ships that sail the seas, a few are lost, but the croaker thinks only of the few unfortunate and breathes not a word of the ten thousand which never spring a leak or lose a spar.

It is just so in regard to mankind. A few of the weak, unfortunate, or betrayed, will inevitably fall by the wayside. Another few will be careless and unscrupulous, and fail, to some extent, in themselves and to their fellow men. But the tendency of the race is upward, the goal for which they steer is a noble one, and the world is better, friends, than you think or give it credit for.

Another Driving Park Association.

Association Races in June.—
Match Races and General Chit-Chat.

A few days ago the race track at Agricultural Park was leased by new parties who formed an association and assumed the old name—The Salt Lake Driving Park Association, and began work at once. C. W. Carrington is president of the new association, and manager; James P. Little, secretary and treasurer. The track has been leased for one year, with the privilege of renewing. There is perhaps a greater need for an organization of this kind than ever before, that is, as summing racing to be a praiseworthy and commendable sport, as well as the only satisfactory method of testing the excellence of animals as compared to each other. The reason for the greater need will be seen in a list of horses now being worked at the track given below, and which without some organization would be unlikely to do anything worthy of mention in the way of excellence or to excite any interest. It is the purpose of the parties forming the association to gain admission to the National Trotting Association, that they may wield a power to be felt elsewhere than here in Salt Lake, and thus be the better able to enforce a compliance to proper conduct by unruly persons who may take an active interest in the running and trotting of horses. Another decision reached is that the bar will neither be closed nor opened. The effect of this will be to preserve a greater degree of order and a little more respectability than is generally exhibited and ensure for ladies who take an interest in these sports and trials a reasonable certainty of freedom from offense.

The first meeting under the new association will be held June 11th, followed by a second day's races on the 12th. This is but a little over a month, and will be as early as horsemen can possibly get their animals into condition. Purse amounts to $700 are being put for the two days and are divided as follows:

FIRST DAY.

First Race.—2.50 class; free for all trotters; mile heats; 3 in 5; purse $100 to first, $50 to second.
Second Race.—2.40 class; free for all trotters, mile heats; 3 in 5; purse $250; $50 to second.

SECOND DAY.

First Race.—2.45 class, free for all pacers and trotters, mile heats; 3 in 5; purse $200; $50 to second.
Second Race.—Running race, half mile and repeat, all ages; purse $100, $30 to first, $20 to second.

Ten per cent. entrance fee will be charged for all races, and in all, four or more must enter, and three or more to start. No conditional entries will be allowed.

This is a very fair starter, and it is beyond a doubt, but the beginning of a series of racing contests that will follow each other through the season in rapid succession. Three match races are already made, one of them to take place before next September or in that month, between the Stewart and Walker colts for $1,000 a side; while a matched running race will follow the above association races within a week. There is every reason to believe the coming season will make unusual local interest in the races. There may not be as many imported horses, nor great match races as there have been heretofore, but enough remain here to admit of a great deal of fun, and we're likely to get it.

A run to the track showed the interest of our townsmen in their blooded beauties, and we give here a rough summary of those now doing duty on the course with the expectation perhaps, on the part of their owners, of each turning out par excellence. The first seen was Elias Morris' black stallion Prince, sired by Black Prince, 3 years old; next, Frank Armstrong's bay stallion Mountain Chief, by Cromwell, 4 years old; R. T. Burton's black gelding, by Caliph, 3 years old; also a bay stallion belonging to the same gentleman, by Caliph, 4 years old; John Groesbeck's bay filly, by Black Prince, 4 years old; C. S. Burton's bay filly, by Cromwell, 4 years old; C. S. Burton's black filly, by Black Prince, 3 years old; Mr. Glenfield's Bird Eye, a buckskin mare, breeding unknown; also his black stallion McFadden, pedigreed, a running horse, aged; S. C. Ewing's brown gelding Jack Gambel, pedigreed, 7 years old; Mark M. Kimmins' sorrel mare, pedigreed, aged; A. D. Young's brown stallion Chief, by Eric, aged; Wm. Neff's grey gelding Roan Billy; Mr. Jot Travis is working Frank L. and Tommy Dodd—both well known, and Jesse James, a grey stallion, all pedigreed; he is also working the running horse Lorillard, bought by Jack Gilmer from B. C. Hawley during the races two years ago; price, $1,500. Mr. Ed. Egan's horse Yorktown is also being worked on the track. This horse is matched against Matt Cullins' pacing team, for a purse ranging, according to common report, all the way from $50 a side up to $1,000 a side, according to the taste and desire of the individual. The day is not yet set; both go to buggy.

Besides these Mr. Carrington has the Stewart colt, Barus, Jr., matched against S. S. Walker's black stallion, Ivanhoe, by Whipple, dam Peace Maker; he also has Mary Emery, but is not working her yet.

yet. Then Countryman can be seen moving along the track in the morning. He looks finer than he has ever done, and is liable to wake up some day and make it lively for the natives. "Grey George," also Mr. Walker's property, is being exercised probably with a view to forthcoming contests.

Quite a number of running horses are being exercised. The Gypsies have half a dozen on the track, among them Lizzard, famed here for the ignominious defeat he suffered some years ago at the hands of—of feet—that noted dandy runner, Sorrel Mike. Mr. Pierce has a fine 2-year-old sorrel, very promising. It is a thorough bred, and was imported from Kentucky last spring by the celebrated Ketchum. Mr. W. Linsley has a 4-year-old filly, purchased by him for B. C. Hawley at the same time Gilmer bought Lorillard. She is called Corsicana, and is doing some splendid work. This makes up a very fair list, and is indicative of a most unusual degree of activity in horse flesh.

A Sharp Imposter.

There was a man begging about the city yesterday who makes a sort of a science of his calling. He pretends to be deaf and dumb, and goes from house to house putting down the names of well-known citizens and fictitious sums opposite their names which he represents they have donated, signifying what he wishes to convey, by dumb show. But trickery, like murder, will out, no matter how sharp the practitioner of it may be. He accosted a lady on the street and made his usual signs for help, to which the lady responded, "you want money, and I haven't a cent." "Well, haint you got ten cents ma'am?" chimed in the dumb man. As this raised the veil somewhat from his false pretences, the lady was not long in giving him the cut direct.

Sudden Death of a Veteran.

Mr. Rodwell, of the 7th Ward, Better known as "Father Rodwell," died suddenly yesterday morning at 3 o'clock; he had celebrated his 84th birthday last Sunday, and on Friday was about town feeling as well as ordinarily; he retired that evening with a slight oppression on the chest, to which, however, no one attached any importance. Mr. John Snell, his son in law, was aroused by a sound of rattling which proceeded from the old gentleman's chamber, but he hardly gained the chamber in time to see him breathe his last. The funeral takes place at noon today from the 7th Ward Meeting House.

Ballet Girls on a Tear.

Two of the hour's who have been posing in the Excelsior ballet, each accompanied by a dark skinned swain from the same company, made things lively on Main Street Friday evening. Each couple occupied a dashing buggy, and each couple was said to have indulged rather freely before taking the reins; the consequence was that when one outfit got entangled in the meshes of the street railway, its occupants were precipitated into the street; the other two vanished into space, but all were in the ranks at the performance with no marks of damage.

The Rubbish.

The majority of the business men on Main street are at a loss to know what to do with the rubbish that accumulates in their places of business and have been in the habit of throwing their sweepings into the street. They are now warned to stop the practice, and wonder what they are going to do about the rubbish. When are we going to get a regularly appointed squad of scavengers who will periodically relieve the stores of the rubbish they are troubled with?

Third District Court.

Proceedings in the Third District Court on Saturday, May 10, 1884, Chief Justice Hunter presiding:

Jane R. Gulver vs. William H. Gulver; decree of divorce granted. Benjamin Canning, of England was admitted a citizen.

People vs. David Gallifant; murder. Trial begun. The defense objected to Arthur Brown as associate counsel for the prosecution, saying there was no warrant in law, no excuse or justification for such assistance.

Explosion of a Soda Cask.

The residents of Second South Street, at the foot of Commercial, were yesterday startled by the sound of a terrific explosion, proceeding from the interior of Denbater's Soda Factory. Dynamite and gunpowder at once flew to every one's mind, but examination showed that the report had proceeded from the bursting of a cask of soda. Luckily, no one was near to interrupt the progress of the atoms.

TREASURE TROVE.

How Good Old Dr. Sprague Received and Restored Lost Goods.

In the primitive days of Salt Lake City, when the Mormon community lived together like one large family, there were a good many customs in vogue which were as quaint as anything to be found in the old world. Among them was one in relation to all articles found, which required that the finders should turn them over to Dr. Sprague, by whom they would be restored to their proper owner without expense.

When first established and for some years afterwards, the system worked admirably, and no matter what a person lost, he felt no anxiety whatever that it would not be recovered. But this desirable state of affairs was succeeded by a period of indifference, during which a good many people who found anything valuable appropriated it to their own use as they do at present. At the time of the "reformation," when President Young called the attention of the people to the evil in unmistakable language, and charged that many lost articles were never recovered by their rightful owners, the consciences of a good many finders of lost articles were smitten to such an extent that a good wagon load of things that had been found, such as farm tools, wearing apparel, old gloves, etc., which had been picked up during two or three years, were brought to Dr. Sprague for restoration.

About the most valuable object that came into the hands of the doctor in this way was a $10 gold piece, which was claimed by a plurality of losers, and as it was very difficult to ascertain the real owner, the coin was turned over to President Young for the use of the Lord.

The only misunderstanding the doctor remembers was in regard to a worsted shawl which was worth about $2. This shawl had been found and was left to be recovered by the owner. Months went by and no owner came, and as a poor old lady of the doctor's acquaintance needed a shawl, he gave that one to her, telling her at the same time the story of how he came by it, and suggesting to her that it was barely possible that the looser might see her with her shawl and claim property. Sure enough as she was coming out of church one Sunday comfortably wrapped in the worsted woman with an angry mein accosted her, and ordered her to give up the shawl. Explanations followed, which attracted the attention of the crowd coming out of church, and the day after Dr. Sprague came in as arbiter between the two females and awarded the prize to its original possessor.

All articles which were not claimed were sold for the benefit of the Mormon Church, to which all the losers were at that time supposed to belong.

About fifteen years ago the custom began to die out, and soon became entirely obsolete, but Dr. Sprague, who has been with the Mormon Church almost from its beginning is still living a hale and hearty old gentleman with eighty and odd years on his back.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Those Who Are Coming and Going.

J. S. Pegg, of Payson, was in the city yesterday.

T. R. Catter, of Lehi Co-op. was in town yesterday.

Willard Crawford, of Salt Lake, is at the Walker House.

Prof. Carl G. Maeser was up from Provo on Saturday. He looks well. Gus Well, of the U. P., takes a narrow gauge for Chicago tomorrow.

D. F. Algood and wife start for Atlanta, Georgia, this morning by the Conic route.

R. M. Peterson, of Hailey, Idaho, for Vicksburg, Miss., this morning by the D. & R. G.

R. Howe, of South Cottonwood, was making his usual market run to the city yesterday.

James Tucker, of Clear Creek, at the Continental on Saturday, leaves for home to-day.

Thomas Lanktree and George Snyder, of Evanston, Wyo., are stopping at the Continental.

J. W. Gath, of Earl & Wilcox, Chicago, starts for that city this morning via the narrow gauge.

R. W. Davis, of the U. P., leaves for St. Louis this morning. He takes the scenic route to Denver.

Tom Davis, who went to Colorado a few weeks ago, has returned. He says he found nothing there but high mountains, deep snow, thick timber and "broke" men.

J. Q. Patter has come up from Frisco, having wound up the affairs of the firm of J. T. Grant & Co., which he was a partner. Mr. Patter remains in the city several days, and then leaves for a new field of operations in Dakota.

An excursion party from Battle Creek, Michigan, consisting of Mr. John Nichols and family, Mrs. M. Caldwell and two daughters, Mrs. Clark and Miss Jennie Brown, arrived here yesterday, and are stopping at the Walker House.

Among the visitors in Salt Lake are Mrs. H. H. Neal and Mrs. J. P. Kendall, of California, and Mr. H. Wilder, of Rio Vista, Cal., enroute for Boston to spend the summer. The first two are the mother and niece respectively, of W. Hume. The ladies are the granddaughters of Grandma Brooks.

That Watering Trough.

The article in THE HERALD couple of days ago relative to horses being allowed to drink at the fountains erected for the benefit of a suffering and thirsty community has caused some talk. The gentleman driving the team referred to, admits it was not exactly the talk to do, but states the practice is common he can hardly see why it should have been chosen. If the practice is common, and there remains no doubt about it, as a sane estate man who has the sense to know better, and others have been seen to do the same dirty trick, the article in question appeared, it seems time that effective measures should be taken to stop it. This is a matter that rests with the police, it is a duty for which they are paid, and it certainly cannot be wrong nor offensive to call their attention to such evils, or legitimate cause for complaint.
